Opportunity for Fraud.

Of course, the objection can be made that the signing of such papers in blank would give opportunities for fraud. How ever, to the fortunately small percentage who wish to cheat there are ways of getting around existing regulations and registering "ringers." TRAPSHOOTERS CAN FIGURE OWN RATING

New System Offers Quick Classification on Yardage Mark Basis.

None of the new rules and regulations resulting from the third annual meeting of the general committee of the American Trapshooting Association held recently in New York is quite so interesting to the trapshooters of North America as that under which they will be handicapped and classified during the season of 1922. The reconstruction of the standard system brought about the four big results which follow:

It is easier to obtain an official average. Every trapshooter who has obtained an average may figure out beforehand his yardage mark and his class. Every trapshooter of known ability but without an average may be handicapped and classified by a committee appointed for that purpose. The so-called "dark horse" has been guarded against, for the twenty yard rule still will hold good in the case of a shooter whose ability is unknown.

While there was objection to the standard system this year, it also was realized by persons who make a deep study of the clay target sport that it was a move in the right direction and that it would be entirely wrong to destroy it. Yet it was admitted that the system worked a hardship upon some shooters who either were beginners or were residents of sparsely settled districts where registered targets were difficult to find in sufficiently large numbers to permit nimrods to make official averages. bers to permit nimrods to make official

This year it was necessary for a trap-shooter to show a total of 1,000 regis-tered targets shot at during 1920 and 1921 to obtain an official average, an-upon this average was based his handi-cap and class. Unless such a toti-could be shown the ninrod was placed no closer to the trap than the 20 yar-mark, and perhaps even further back. participating in the handicaps and the classification shoots. Moreover, whether or not a trapshooter had an officia average, it always was possible for the handicap committee to place him further back than the average or the penalty called for
